

Nora Kako

Product & UX/UI Designer in Brooklyn, NY

norakako.com
nora.i.kako@gmail.com
917 526 2030

Product designer with 11 years experience across nearly every industry and team type: consumer, B2B, regulated, startup, and enterprise. I do my best work making highly technical products accessible to real people, and I thrive in ambiguous, fast-moving environments.

Experience

Freelance Product Designer at Ode with Anthropic (January 2026 - Current)

First and only designer at Ode (formerly Fractional AI), a company building custom AI solutions for PE portfolio companies, joining pre-acquisition by Anthropic. Owned product and UX design across a constantly shifting portfolio of client projects, meeting directly with clients, running user interviews, and moving between industries, problems, and constraints day to day, with heavy ambiguity and fast turnaround.

Head of Design at Airbyte (October 2023 - November 2025)

Grew and led Airbyte's design team, hiring and managing designers while owning end-to-end design across the company, from marketing and brand to core product. Built and maintained a design system created for a global, multilingual audience with mixed technical proficiency. Partnered directly with product, engineering, and leadership as the company scaled 4x.

Founder at Flock Studio (April 2019 - October 2023)

Founded and led a small design studio specializing in working with small, early-stage startups. Our work ran the gamut from consumer to B2B, from biotech to crypto, and everything in between.

Just a few of our lovely clients:

Down Dog (an app for practicing yoga)

Wowd (an app that connects creators and their fans)

Fabius (a b2b platform for product teams to track customer insights)

The SF Standard (a local, independent digital publication)

Webacy (a platform to manage digital assets after death)

Kapwing (an online video editor)

Product Lead / Designer at Reduct (June 2018 - April 2019)

Reduct is Control-F for video. As first employee, I designed the product from 0 to 1 over its first year, defining a new UI where text and video are combined into a searchable, editable format. Helped grow the team 3x.

Product Designer at LiveRamp (September 2015 - February 2018)

Worked on a two-person design team to deliver designs for the company's B2B adtech platform, which serves 400+ clients. Designed and launched a new organizational structure for the platform after leading a cross-team information architecture project, including new navigation and help content.

Education

Swarthmore College (2011 - 2015)

B.A., Computer Science

Skills

Figma, Design Systems, Prototyping, Wireframing, Interaction Design, User Research, Information Architecture, Accessibility, Responsive Design, Web Dev